More of repairs funded

Granite City's fight against faulty sanitary sewer lines in the Nameoki area gained impetus this week in two major developments reported during a meeting of the City Council Tuesday night.

In the first, the city was informed by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency that a grant of $188,000 for a study of steps necessary to rehabilitate the Nameoki area sewer system has been approved.

In the second, council members were notified that the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration at Washington had agreed to allocate an additional $142,810 to Granite City as reimbursement of money spent for repair of a series of sanitary sewer breaks between July 1974 and July 1975.

The Illinois EPA grant of $188,000 represents 75 per cent of an estimated cost of $250,000 for a survey to determine the extent and estimated cost of a rehabilitation program to replace or rebuild sewer lines that were damaged by floods in 1973 and since damaged by a high underground water table.

Mayor Paul Schuler, who was notified of the grant approval by Richard Broeland, director of the Illinois EPA, said the study will constitute Phase One of a Nameoki area sewer

Separate department for sewers proposed

A proposal that Granite City establish a new sanitation department to handle all sewer repair and cleaning work was made to the City Council Tuesday night. Such work is now handled by the street department.

The suggestion came from Alderman Ronald Coleman of the Seventh Ward who noted that the increased responsibility for sewer maintenance, cleaning and repair is taking much of the time of street department workers.

He told the council that the additional responsibilities of televising sanitary sewer lines in the Nameoki area, along with gROUTING work to repair sanitary sewer lines, should be handled by a separate department which would give street department workers "more time to get more street work done."

"Now that we are ready to acquire additional television and gROUTING equipment, and have additional men scheduled to handle the equipment, I think it is time we set up a sanitation department that would be responsible for sewer work," Coleman said.

The council approved a motion by Coleman that the proposal be studied by the street and alley committee, headed by Alderman Clyde Boyd, and the special sewer committee, chaired by Alderman Emerald Davies, and that a recommendation be returned at the council's July 20 meeting.

The proposal brought objection from Alderman Everett Morien of the First Ward who said such a plan "would cost a lot of money" and that "I think we'd be biting off a big chunk."

Sewer, downtown, Depot needs cited

The Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce board went on record at its July dinner last night at Charlie's Restaurant as urging Madison County officials to "stand firm" and to support efforts to obtain sanitary sewers.

While many residents signed petitions opposing sewers, clear-cut majorities of tax-

Alderman Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward said he would favor a separate department for sewer work only if there was a guarantee that it would not require a permanent full-time department head and a year-around work crew.

"As it is now, street department workers can do other work during the winter months when we can't televise or otherwise work on sewers," Whitmer said. "I wouldn't want to see a full-time crew for sewer work which would cost a year-around work crew."

Ring in ears could be hazardous

Have your ears been ringing lately with all the noisy Bicentennial festivities?

Ringing in the ears of Illinois State Trooper Vernon P. Dutton at 10:45 p.m. Tuesday was of a more serious kind; it could have proved hazardous to his health, because it was caused by a bullet that only narrowly missed his head.

He had stopped an auto on Interstate 70 a half-mile east of Route 203 south of Madison upon noting the vehicle had one headlight dark.

While he was parked on the north shoulder and standing next to westbound lanes facing east, he saw another auto, a small blue car, approaching and an arm extended. A gun was fired about four feet from his right ear and the bullet just missed the trooper.

Police were alerted by radio but Dutton did not return the fire due to the heavy traffic as the blue auto sped away. He was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital for a headache and the ringing in his ears.

Weather outlook for this region

Diagnostic acquisition at hospital

A Computerized Tomography System—a completely new diagnostic x-ray technique using computer analysis—has been purchased by St. Elizabeth Hospital here at a cost of a half million dollars.

The new system has been ordered from England and delivery is expected in about eight months, hospital authorities said. When it is received St. Elizabeth Hospital will be one of the few hospitals in the United States to have the new system.

Dr. Bernard Lottman, chief radiologist, said the system is a completely new diagnostic x-ray technique which by means of a computer analysis, generates much more information than conventional x-ray techniques.

"The new system will allow us to depict deep brain and organ structure with only minimal amounts of radiation and without the injection of dyes into the body."

"We have turned a corner in medicine," he said. "The computer has done to x-ray what the internal combustion engine has done to horse and buggy transportation."

Dr. Robert Lay, a surgeon on the hospital staff, said the scanning device is the best thing that has happened in medicine in many years. He explained that the new system permits an x-ray of any part of the body to be made in 20 seconds.

Doctors are thus provided with detailed pictures to facilitate diagnostic accuracy. Tumors and masses can be detected in their earliest stages, he noted.

The benefits to the patient are many, it was explained. Not only will the patient no longer have to travel to large metropolitan areas to receive the most advanced treatment available, but indications are that the new scanner may reduce significantly the need for hospitalization for diagnostic tests and has great potential for the reduction of the duration of hospitalization, it was noted.

Brooks a United division chairman

$1 million to fight cave-ins over mines

Cong. Melvin Price, Dem. 23rd, Ill., has announced that House and Senate conferees have agreed to include his request for a Southern Illinois bituminous coal mine subsidence demonstration project in the conference report to the Department of Interior appropriations bill for the 1976-77 fiscal year.

The conference report, according to Rep. Price, has been filed in the House and Senate and will be taken up after the Congressional recess.

Price previously requested that the U.S. Bureau of Mines undertake a preliminary study to determine the feasibility of a demonstration program involving bituminous coal mine subsidence.

The Bureau of Mines furnished the local congressman with the report and subsequently Rep. Price requested funds to initiate the mine subsidence study.

Rep. Price actively supported the legislation in the House of Representatives and supported the conferees' compromise bill, resulting in $1,000,000 being allocated to the project.

"I am especially heartened by this action," Rep. Price said. "It means that our area can begin to deal with a truly serious problem."

NAACP delegates favor retaining Roy Wilkins

The full delegation to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) was shocked when Roy Wilkins, executive director, accused board members of wanting him to resign, according to John Henry Williams, vice-president of the Madison Branch of the NAACP. Mrs. Mable Dandridge, treasurer of the Madison Branch, also attended the meeting last week in Memphis, Tenn., as a local representative. "I think Wilkins has been doing a good job," Williams said. "I think the majority of the delegates attending also thought Wilkins should stay. Everytime he was introduced or spoke he received a standing ovation from everyone. Anyway, the matter is going to be taken up and resolved at the national board meeting in September."

"I found the meeting worthwhile and educational. I attended workshops on housing education and senior citizens. We brought back a lot of good ideas and literature on programs to study and see if some of them will help the people in our area."

"I was real pleased with the hospitality of the people in Memphis, and I am appreciative of the chance to attend," Williams said.

The NAACP convention theme this year was "Soul of '76."

Next year, according to Williams, the NAACP convention will be held in St. Louis. Mrs. Mary Bush Wilson, a St. Louis attorney, is the chairman of the national board of directors for the NAACP.

Winter chief executive officer of 7-Up firm

At a meeting of the board of directors Tuesday, it was announced that Ben H. Wells, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, will step down as chief executive officer of The Seven-Up Company.

William E. Winter, formerly president and chief operating officer, assumes the position of president and chief executive officer of the company. The board approved the change effective July 1. He is a former Granite Cityan.

Wells, 70, will continue as chairman of the board, devoting more time to long-range planning as chairman of the board's executive committee. He will remain a director of Seven-Up Canada Limited, Seven-Up International, Inc., and the Warner-Jenkinson Company, subsidiaries of The Seven-Up Company, St. Louis.

Wells will also continue to represent the company on the boards of the National Association of Manufacturers and the Grocery Manufacturers of America, and in other activities with trade, civic and charitable groups.

Elected chairman of the board in 1974, Wells was president and chief executive officer of the company from 1965 to 1974. He joined the firm in 1938 as an advertising and sales promotion copywriter.

He went on to become sales promotion manager, sales manager and, in 1945, vice-president for sales and advertising. He has been a member of the Seven-Up board since 1961.

During Wells' tenure as president, board chairman and chief executive officer, Seven-Up sales increased from $38.2 million to $213.6 million last year. Both internal growth and the acquisition of related companies have been contributing factors.

Net income during the same period increased from $2.4 million to $20.3 million in 1975. Born in Michigan, Wells has lived in St. Louis all of his adult career and has been an active leader in many organizations and projects designed to promote St. Louis and develop its cultural institutions.

He is director of the St. Louis Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, the United Way, Arts and Education Council, president of the St. Louis Symphony Society, and a member of Civic Progress, Inc.

Recently he was named Marketing Man of the Year by the St. Louis Chapter of the American Marketing Association.

Winter, 55, who has been president and chief operating officer of Seven-Up since May 1974, has played a key role in Seven-Up growth for 30 years.

He joined the company as a sales training instructor in 1946, was named sales promotion manager in 1954, and in 1965 became vice-president and marketing manager. He was appointed executive vice-president in 1971.

Under Winter's direction, the company's marketing program grew to include numerous specialized functions: advertising, sales promotion, merchandising, packaging, consumer services, market planning and research, field and Fountain 7UP sales and corporate communications.

Following his graduation from the University of Illinois, Winter attended local secondary schools.

In addition to being a member of The Seven-Up Company's board of directors and the executive committee, Winter is also active in St. Louis business and civic affairs.

He is a director of Bank Building Corp., a member of the St. Louis chapters of Sales and Marketing Executives and the American Marketing Association, and a director and vice-president of the Metropolitan St. Louis YMCA. He is past board chairman of the Premium Advertising Association of America.

Thompson names job development committee

James R. Thompson, Republican candidate for governor, announced the members of a Regional Job Development Committee on Tuesday for a nine-county area surrounding East St. Louis.

Speaking in East St. Louis, Fairview Heights and Vandalia, Thompson said the committee will work with nine other such committees that he will be naming throughout the state to study regional economic conditions.

"The East St. Louis area is a region that is desperately trying to pull itself up by its own economic bootstraps," Thompson said.

The former United States attorney cited economic and business trends that "must be turned around if the area is going to prosper economically."

"Too many people are leaving the area, as evidenced by St. Clair County's loss of 5.2 per cent of its population between 1970 and 1974."

"The median income in East St. Louis is more than $4,000 below the overall state median average of $10,959."

"As people leave the area, the tax base is shrinking and there has been a corresponding decline in the total assessed value of property. Assessed property valuations declined 16 per cent ($27 million) between 1970 and 1974."

"Welfare levels are too high. In May 1976, more than 42,000 people in St. Clair County were receiving public aid in one form or another."

"If we can do our best to meet these problems and solve them, we can enhance the hope for the future that is already on the horizon," Thompson said.

"But the strongest feature supporting economic hope for the future is the desire on the part of the community to turn things around. And that desire is clearly expressed by the number of exceptionally talented and highly qualified people who have volunteered to serve on the Job Development Committee for this region."

The first job of the 11-member committee, Thompson said, will be to compile an economic profile of the region including economic status, job development potential, major problems, and what can be done to encourage economic growth.

Youth group back from College of the Ozarks

The Youth Fellowship of the Nameoki Presbyterian Church has returned from its annual summer work tour. This year's "labor of love" took the group to the College of the Ozarks in Clarksville, Ark.

The 125-year-old school is able to provide quality education at minimal cost through summer work camps and student help in the school year.

The Granite City group, led by its pastor, the Rev. Don F. Pierson, spent a week in maintenance and moving, getting ready for another group's painting and cement work.

Accompanying the Nameoki young people was Birds Buzan, summer youth coordinator of the Nameoki Presbyterian Church.

The local group while enroute stayed at the First Calvary Presbyterian Church of Springfield, Mo., and was entertained by the Youth Fellowship of that church.

On the return trip, the group toured the School of the Ozarks at Point Lookout, Mo., and spent a day at Silver Dollar City.

In addition to the pastor and summer youth coordinator, those who went on the work tour were Gerald Bowen, Mark Britton, Terri Bloomquist, Becky Corliss, Andy Pierson, Barry Polley, Gene Scroggins, Darryl Toussaint, Brenda Watts, Bill Flinn and Kathy Flinn.

The Youth Fellowship of Nameoki Presbyterian has a full and varied program planned for the summer, including a float trip, a campout, a retreat, picnics and tents.

The group is open to the junior and senior highs of the community and meets Sundays at 4 p.m.

This Sunday evening, the group will be attending "Fiddler on the Roof," and there will be a later trip to a synagogue.

Revise guidelines for cost of school meals

Revised eligibility guidelines, for free or reduced price breakfasts and lunches in Illinois schools, are being announced by State Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin.

The guidelines reflect an average hike of 14 per cent in family income levels eligible for the free and reduced price programs, Cronin said.

The guidelines are adjusted each year to reflect the Bureau of Labor Statistics "Cost of Eating Out" index.

Cronin expressed his concern at the impact of inflation on the school cafeteria.

"Everything from scrambled eggs to hamburgers costs more to prepare," he said. "And these increased costs have forced local school boards to raise the lunchroom prices, thereby pricing some children out of the school cafeteria."

"We must make sure good nutrition—an essential to learning—is within the reach of every school child," Cronin said.

He said that the yearly adjustment in the guidelines should assist some families by allowing them to reach a higher earning level while still qualifying for the free or reduced price breakfasts and lunches.

Free and reduced price meal programs and free milk must be offered in all schools participating in the national school lunch program, Cronin noted.

Maximum cost for a reduced-price lunch is 20 cents. Maximum for the reduced-price breakfast is 10 cents.

State and federal reimbursement through the State Board of Education is provided local schools to offset the costs of serving free and reduced-price meals, the state superintendent said. Illinois statutes require all public schools to offer free lunches to eligible needy students.

Cronin noted that more than one million Illinois children eat lunch each day in public school programs. Of these, he said, one-third receive free or reduced-price lunches. Nearly 100,000 breakfasts are served daily in Illinois schools, he added, and three-fourths of these are free breakfasts.

The family income guidelines follow with family size, the income maximum for free meals and the income maximum for reduced price breakfast and lunch listed in that order.

One, $3,880 and $5,720; two, $4,230 and $7,530; three, $5,980 and $9,320; four, $7,130 and $11,110; five, $8,190 and $12,770; six, $9,240 and $14,410; seven, $10,200 and $15,910; eight, $11,150 and $17,390; nine, $12,010 and $18,740; ten, $12,870 and $19,990; 11, $13,720 and $21,430; 12, $14,590 and $22,770.

Additional income of $860 for free meals and $1,340 for reduced price meals may be added to these figures for each additional family member.

The state education office said that in applying the guidelines, local authorities may consider either the income of the family during the past 12 months or the family's current rate of income to determine which is the better indicator of need for free or reduced price meals.

Text of essay

By DONNA LAUGHLIN
A woman's place is in her home, so it's said. This may have been so in the pioneer days, but times are different. And with life's everchanging ways, we are witnessing a new era for women.

Women of today have a social responsibility not only toward America but in their own self-fulfillment.

In their search for greater realization, women have gone into many varied occupations and professions. The pioneer women of the first century, through tremendous opposition, laid the foundation toward greater achievements for women.

These women struggled to carve a position for themselves in a man's world. Many of these women remain unknown where only their names can be read on tombstones, without mention of their accomplishments or claims of glory for their efforts.

Their achievements may seem insignificant but they are the unknown elements that represent the fundamental basis for women's persistent fight against inequality.

Since 1976 is the Bicentennial year, now is a good time to think about the contributions of these women in the past. Hopefully, in the next celebration of our nation's birthday, women will find even greater achievements in the molding of America.

In our community, one of the brave and spirited women of her sex is Dr. Felicia Koch. Dr. Koch is a general practitioner in Granite City who has contributed many improvements in a variety of fields.

One of her favorite quotations, which perhaps describes the work of Dr. Felicia Koch best, was spoken by the humanitarian, Albert Schweitzer: "Happy are those who have sought and found how to serve."

It describes her and many other women who sought and found how to serve their communities with their own personal undertakings.

These are the women that have the greatest reason to be happy, because they reached out to develop their unique capabilities and found satisfaction.

Felicia, who was born in 1906 in Chicago, went through many hardships to become a doctor, which she had decided upon at the age of five.

Her parents would not tolerate her taking any classes which would benefit her future toward medicine. However, because of her perseverance and her desire to become a doctor, she went to college and took the needed classes she had been denied, which then started her on her medical career.

Realizing her daughter's determination, her father became convinced that her interest in medicine was serious. Even though in the early 1900s, parents usually did not encourage their daughters in careers outside the home, he then actively supported her.

To help with the expense, she taught piano and was church organist while studying at Loyola University.

It was there at Loyola that she received her B.S. and M.D. degrees. There, also, she was subjected to the prejudice against women endeavoring to expand their role in life.

This added to her difficulties and continued to plague her during internship at the Women and Children's Hospital in Chicago.

Male interns were so uncompromising that they would neither allow her to sit at their lunch table nor associate with her in any way.

Patients, too, were alarmed at first. But because of her gentle and understanding ways, they began to trust and believe in her professional capabilities.

In 1936, after two years of marriage, Felicia and her physician husband, "Dr. Joe," moved to Granite City and established their practice.

It was here that she combined home and career with dignity. During these first years, she began raising her family.

Eventually having six children while she still maintained her medical practice.

While the children were small, she was sometimes summoned unexpectedly to St. Elizabeth Hospital for an emergency appendectomy or to deliver a baby.

These sudden notices gave her no time to locate a baby sitter, so she would take her children with her and put them in the hospital nursery, trusting their care to the nurses stationed there.

Her children, as infants, also accompanied her to her office she had established in town. There they would sleep peacefully in the crib while she continued treating her patients.

It was during the four years that "Dr. Joe" was in the armed forces that she not only cared for their children and home, but undertook the enormous task of maintaining both medical practices.

Endeavoring to cope with this additional work, she learned to be efficient and practical while managing their affairs to still include leisure time with her family.

"After the war and as her family matured, Dr. Felicia Koch still continued to spend time with them.

One of their family projects involved heating on a 65-foot houseboat which also included family participation in Coast Guard activities.

Throughout her professional life, Dr. Felicia Koch has participated in many community interests. One of her earlier contributions in the area of health services was the institution of a program for indigent children which made available to them immunizations against polio, typhoid and rubella.

Continued interest in health care improvements led her to personally solicit $100,000 for St. Elizabeth Hospital's building fund.

St. Elizabeth's is now a 400-bed, fully-equipped modern hospital offering expanded services to the area.

Dr. Koch has served in the Hospital Auxiliary as a charter member, belongs to Madison County and Tri-City Medical Societies and is a member of the American Medical Women's Association.

In 1966, honoring a fellow alumni, the Loyola Medical Society presented her with a "Feather in the Hat Award."

Another honor in the medical field is a fellowship in the American Academy of Family Practice in 1974.

As a businesswoman, she became the first woman board member of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and also served as its vice-president.

Realizing the necessity of including women in more positions that were once available exclusively for men, she organized the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

To help ensure women's continued involvement, she has encouraged community concerts and participated in many organizations.

Some of these organizations include Mental Health, March of Dimes, United Way and the Cancer Society. In 1963, she received from St. Louis the "Woman of Achievement Award."

Pet adoption clinic at army base tonight

The Quad-City Association for Protection of Animals (APA), a non-profit volunteer humane group, which is being required to close its facilities at the Granite City Army Installation next month, will hold an adoption clinic from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. today at the shelter on the military base.

All animals under the APA's care must be adopted before the closing deadline, according to APA officers.

Another important aspect of Dr. Koch's life has been her involvement with her church. She belongs to Catholic Charities, Our Lady of the Snows Foundation and other church-affiliated activities.

She and her family regularly attend Mass at Sacred Heart and, during her daily hospital rounds, she includes time to visit the hospital chapel.

Women cannot remain invisible like so many of the participating women in the past.

Like Dr. Felicia Koch, women must reach out and become committed in order to prove the only place for women is not necessarily the home.

Each woman of this Bicentennial era has benefited from the earlier pioneering women—and has a better opportunity to triumphantly support woman's causes and invest her efforts in America's future.

Two charged in disturbance
Laddie C. Bittus, 21, of 1908 Second St., Madison, and Kenneth W. Hanks, 32, of 2031A Bryan Ave., were charged with assault, criminal damage to property and disorderly conduct after their arrest near the home of Lennis Parker, 2029 Bryan Ave., at 10:40 a.m. Wednesday.

Parker alleged he and Hanks had a disagreement the previous evening which led to each calling friends to their homes for protection.

There were five men at Parker's home and three at Hanks' home when Hanks, Butkus and another man allegedly went to Parker's home.

The men then returned to Hanks' home and Parker called police, Parker alleged. When officers arrived at the scene, they called to those in Hanks' home to come out and alleged one man tied on foot while the other two came out. No gun could be found.

Butkus and Hanks pleaded guilty to assault and disorderly conduct and were fined $40 each in Granite City court yesterday. They pleaded innocent to criminal damage to property and were released on their own recognizance pending a circuit court hearing.

Clutch hits win for 2nd-place Post 113

Getting the kind of timely "clutch" hitting that was lacking earlier in the season, American Legion Post 113 rallied to edge Cahokia 4-3 Wednesday.

The victory kept the Tri-City nine's playoff hopes burning bright. With 10 wins and seven losses, Post 113 is in sole possession of second place behind certain champion Belleville.

The top four of the 12 teams in the Legion District will vie in post-season playoffs. Cahokia and Highland are both 8-7 at this point and East St. Louis has nine wins and eight losses to occupy fifth place.

In last night's dramatic seventh inning, Post 113 trailed by the tying and winning runs. The second out was recorded after Tom Henrich had walked to put runners on first and second base.

John Pritchard ended the suspense with a long hit toward right-centerfield, driving in teammates from second and third, and the tying and winning runs. Because his hit broke up the game, Scarborough was credited only with a single but otherwise could have stretched it into a double or triple.

Two unearned fourth-inning runs gave Cahokia the lead and the score became 3-0 in the top of the sixth on a home run.

In the home half of the sixth, Pritchard tripled and Kirk Champion singled to center to drive in the initial Post 113 run.

Mike Clark also singled but the side was retired before there was any further scoring.

Clark and Keith Champion each garnered two hits, with Kirk Champion, Pritchard and Scarborough sharing runs batted-in honors.

VEHICLE LICENSE SHOW INCREASE The Secretary of State Vehicle Services department is doing far more business the first six months of this year in issuing titles for calendar year vehicles than it did for a comparable period in 1975.

Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett announced Wednesday that his office has processed 1,766,200 titles this year through June, compared to 1,646,000 the first six months of last year. This represents an increase of 382,200.

"This shows that the economy has improved and more people are trading cars," Howlett said. "I am pleased to report that the same number of employees handled the title increase as in processing 1975 title applications."

REPAIRS (Continued from Page 1) rehabilitation program in which additional grants will be requested for Phase Two (design planning) and Phase Three (construction cost).

The grant offer provided that the city must accept the offer by Aug. 1. As a result, a resolution of acceptance was submitted during Tuesday night's meeting by Alderman Glen Spankle. The resolution was approved unanimously.

The city spent a total of $1.6 million for Nameoki area sewer repairs in 1974 and 1975 and still has 17 sewer breaks, several of them of major proportions.

The grant by FDAA supplements monies already allotted by the federal government to reimburse the city for part of its cost in repairing the sewer breaks.

Mayor Schuler said that the latest allotment results from the FDAA rulings which had rejected claims for the cost of mobilizing and demobilizing equipment on sewer repair jobs.

"This additional grant is indeed good news," the mayor said, noting that "it is money we would have lost if we had abided without protest the earlier rulings on claims by the federal government."

Schuler, accompanied by several aldermen, had made several trips to Washington this year to confer with FDAA officials concerning rejected grants.

The FDAA, prior to the additional allocation approved this week, had agreed to pay a total of $500,000, of which the city already has received $325,000.

Mayor Schuler said the new grant brings the total of approved claims to $825,000, and that appeals still are pending before the FDAA on other phases of the repair work.

CAR HITS PORCH; TWO GIRLS FLEE Two girls escaped on foot after the auto they had just taken crashed into the front porch at the home of James McClelland, 2925 Washington Ave., at 11:20 p.m. Wednesday.

It is believed the girls took the car of Robert Baker, 4706 Kirkpatrick Homes, and were southbound on Washington Avenue when the car left the roadway and hit the porch, collapsing it. The girls then were seen getting out of the car and running away.

It was necessary to prop up the porch floor before the car could be removed. Damage to the porch was estimated at $1,200 to $1,600.

FIRE DAMAGES CAR A fire in the front seat of a van truck owned by Robert Ellsworth, 2935 Morgan Ave., at 2:30 a.m. Wednesday, resulted in $25 damage to the vehicle. Firemen were there 25 minutes. The blaze is believed to have been started by a lit cigarette.

Other officers elected were M. M. "Mike" Petrosian, first vice-president; Gary Davis, second vice-president; Marvin Barnes, treasurer, and Jerry Harrington, secretary.

Michael Toundas is the retiring club president. It was reported that tickets couldn't be done in the winter, and have those men on the payroll while they weren't doing anything," he added.

Boyd approved the idea and said he thought it would be possible to set up a department in which the men became experienced in handling sewer problems, particularly the problem of dewatering in areas with high water tables.

In a related action, the aldermen approved a motion, authorizing a bid call for the purchase of an additional trailer-mounted television and grouting system to supplement the one now in use. On a motion by Boyd, the bids will be called for 3 p.m. July 20.

Joint meeting is postponed

A joint meeting of the Chouteau Town Board of Auditors and the township's Community Development Committee, which had been scheduled for Tuesday night, has been postponed until the architect, John Rapp, completes his final drawings of a proposed town hall and community center building.

The meeting had been called to study and approve the final drawings, so Rapp could prepare actual construction specifications for bidding. He pledged the drawings will be completed in a week to 10 days, after which the meeting date will be announced.

The township has committed all of its federal revenue sharing funds and its Community Development funds to township buildings. A township garage already has been completed with revenue sharing funds and the combined town hall and community center building is planned for construction this summer.

The Community Development Committee has undertaken a fund-raising drive for furnishings in the community center, since it is anticipated the grant funds available will be sufficient only to pay the costs of engineering and construction of the building.

Persons donating to the fund drive will have their names inscribed on Bicentennial plaques which will hang in the building.

Man of La Mancha play opens tonight

Is Don Quixote a man of the 16th Century or a man for all time? Is he a hero or a fool? To an idealist, he is a hero; to a realist, he is a fool. But to those who dream for purity where there is blight, he stands as a heroic symbol by which good overcomes evil.

The department of theater and dance at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will present the musical tale of Don Quixote and his quest in Dale Wassermann's Man of La Mancha beginning tonight. Miguel de Cervantes, a man searching for the impossible dream.

Student performances will be held July 8, 9, 10, 15, 16 and 17 at 8:15 p.m. in the Communications Building theater on campus.

Tickets will be $2 for adults, $1 for all students, $1.50 for senior citizens and groups over 20, and 50 cents for children under 12 years of age.

Leading the cast are Al Erickson as Don Quixote, Tom Fisher as Sancho and Marilyn Tipton as Aldonza.

Other characters in the play include Jim Davis as the innkeeper, Mike Ramach as the padre, Kevin Roach as Doctor Carrasco, Barbara Marenelle as Antonia and Tom Dean as the barber. The innkeeper's wife is portrayed by Gwen Harris of Granite City.

The roles of the four melaters are played by Phil Nelson, Wendy Stevenson, Brad Woolbright and Dave Hyls. As a newly acquired prisoner awaiting the Inquisition, Cervantes asks for the defense he knows best—a charade. In the charade, he assumes the role of Don Quixote, a knight errant. At the conclusion of the charade, Quixote finds his love Dulcinea, also known as Aldonza.

When she asks, "What does he want of me?" she is surprised to discover he wants nothing but to serve her virtue and nobility of spirit. Reservations and other ticket information are obtained by calling 692-2775.

Registration cards to expire

Miss Evelyn M. Bowles, Madison county clerk, has advised that all voters' certificates of registration (pink cards) expire on July 31 this year.

All registered voters who still are at the address shown on their present card, will automatically receive a new card which will expire July 31, 1980.

She said that people who are presently registered should not re-register. The new cards will be mailed during the month of July and early August to approximately 130,000 persons. Registered voters who have moved should report the change of address to the county clerk immediately.

Their son, Richard Chen, 17, escaped injury but was needed at the hospital to serve as an interpreter for his parents, who do not speak English.

76 greatest men, women in Illinois history named

Michael J. Howlett, secretary of state, has announced the results of a contest he sponsored to select the 76 greatest men and women in Illinois history.

Last year, Howlett invited clergy members, educators, Chambers of Commerce, historical societies, Bicentennial commissions and civic groups to nominate figures from Illinois' past whose achievements they admired.

As public awareness of the project increased, names were submitted by public officials, school children and other interested citizens.

Contest rules required that nominees no longer be living, but that they were born in Illinois or resided in the state during a productive period of their lives.

When balloting closed on Jan. 1, 1976, a committee of business and professional leaders narrowed the field and assembled the final 76.

"Over 500 different names were submitted," said Howlett. "The nominees included writers, architects, scientists, public servants and captains of industry—people from every field of human endeavor. Our committee selected a team of men and women that reads like a 'Who's Who in Illinois History'."

"Some of the figures, like Daniel Pope Cook and John Kinzie, contributed to the growth and vitality of Illinois. Others, like Abraham Lincoln and Jane Addams, contributed to the development of America and its institutions."

"We feel this contest was a unique way for citizens to participate in the Bicentennial celebration."

Howlett said a booklet featuring biographies of the 76 Illinoisans will be distributed to schools and libraries later this year.

4-H members take part in state training

"Learning how to know yourself" was a part of the 1976 Illinois 4-H Conference program held this summer at the University of Illinois, Urbana.

Madison County was represented by 25, including Addie Heard, Gloria McNeer and Veronica Williams, all of Madison; Marsha Allen of Venice; and Lana Boon of the Netherlands, who had been staying with the Darwin Meier family of Troy.

Participants in the four-day conference learned techniques of self-disclosure by putting themselves into words and ideas into actions.

Through a series of workshops and discussions, the young people learned to identify their own needs and how they react to the needs of others.

Also, in a session on group behavior, the young people learned how they react in various groups.

"Because we all react differently in different groups, the participants used the technique of role playing to determine the roles one can assume in various situations," a spokesman said.

Other topics on the program included "Who's In There?" (on self), "Take a Drive" (on motivation), "A Plastic, Fantastic Gizmo" (on communications), and "The World's a Fair of Blue Jeans and a Double Knit" (on group interaction).

Grady Nutt, humorist and author of the book "Being Me; or, So Be It, You Bug Me," presented the opening address.

Other features of the conference included a concert by the Chicago Vocational High School Orchestra, a pork chop barbecue, a 60s dance, a square dance and a recognition banquet.

Delegates participated in such recreational activities as tennis, swimming and handball during free time.

Four-H is the youth phase of the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service.

A charter has been issued by the office of the secretary of state to the Hope Hog Farm Foundation of which Edward T. Walker is incorporator and operator. The registered office of the foundation is 110 Hare St., Madison, where he also lives, also at 307 Weaver St., Venice.

The Hope Hog Farm Foundation is a self-help program founded to provide needy individuals with fresh meat, vegetables, stipends and salaries for some type of work performed or service rendered.

Walker said that he is "hopeful that economic growth will be a result of this project's implementation."

The foundation is a charitable, educational and agricultural endeavor designed to accomplish its objectives through the use of all possible resources, along with technical assistance from various institutions, he noted.

Walker, founder of the organization, feels that the "time is ripe" for such a program and hopes that the community leaders and citizenry will unite with him "to fight poverty, unemployment, prejudice, ignorance and crime to make the community one that the residents can be proud to live in."

SEEK COUNTY PERMIT The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals will conduct an on-site public hearing at 9:45 a.m. Tuesday, July 13, at 319 Fairmont Ave., State Park Place, where Mrs. Lovader Hedger and Brian A. Lawwell are requesting a special use permit to occupy an existing mobile home at that location. The property is in Nameoki Township.

Pvt. Nancy Adams and Sgt. John Thomason wed

Army Private Nancy Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Adams of Staten Island, N.Y., and Army Sergeant John Thomason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mary Busler, 2806 W. 20th St., were united in marriage June 20 at Camp Wadsworth Chapel on Staten Island.

Mrs. Busler and daughter, Paula, were among the guests at the ceremony. The newlyweds are stationed at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., where they are members of the elite "B Troop," an honorary unit of the U.S. Army, organized on July 4, 1973.

Formation of "B Troop" commemorated the Geronimo campaign of 1885-86, in which the original "B Troop" spent five months covering more than 3,000 miles from Fort Huachuca into Mexico in pursuit of the Chiricahua band of Apaches and their famed chief, Geronimo.

After nearly a century, the special unit was established to honor "B Troop," 4th Regiment, United States Cavalry. Among its main purposes is to commemorate the heritage of the United States Cavalry and the American Indian.

The new "B Troop" is made up of 37 troopers, three Indian scouts and two civilian scouts. All are volunteers and are under the command of Captain John D. Barnett and Lieutenant Rudy Whitehead.

"B Troop" represents the U.S. Army at various functions and ceremonial events. Shortly after their marriage, the bride and groom returned to duty and appeared with "B Troop" at a rodeo in Philadelphia, Pa., which concluded June 26.

Ackerman is called well qualified to be this district's federal judge

By LESTER BELL
Press-Record
Washington Bureau
Illinois Circuit Judge L. Waldo Ackerman, Springfield, sailed smoothly through a Senate confirmation hearing for elevation to the federal bench last week.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, D-Neb., who presided, said Ackerman's nomination to become U. S. district judge for the Southern District of Illinois drew "no adverse or other communications" and would go promptly to the full Senate Judiciary Committee.

The committee will report his nomination to the Senate for a confirmation vote.
President Gerald Ford, on the recommendation of Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., nominated Ackerman to the seat vacated by the elevation of Judge Harrington Wood Jr. to the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.
Ackerman, 50, before becoming a circuit judge for the Illinois 7th Judicial Circuit, served in a variety of legal assignments and public service capacities.

Among them was his key role in the Illinois attorney general's investigation of the shoebox fortune of former Secretary of State Paul Powell.
Ackerman was introduced by Sen. Percy, who said the nominee also had the endorsement of Sen. Adlai E.

Stevenson, D-Ill., who was unable to attend the hearing.
Reciting Ackerman's qualifications, Percy said, "Seldom have I suggested a nominee of such wide acclaim among his peers."
Percy noted that Ackerman's rivals for the nomination, "the runners-up," even applauded his selection.
Hruska observed that the American Bar Association's Judiciary Committee had endorsed Ackerman as "well qualified" for the federal bench.

"I commend the senator from Illinois," Hruska said in reference to Percy, "for another good job of recruitment. He has produced a number of superior nominees and this adds to the list."
Later, in the hall outside the hearing room, Percy turned to Ackerman and said, "Very pleasant."

Ackerman's reaction was that he was "honored and thrilled to be nominated by the President on Sen. Percy's recommendation and with Sen. Stevenson's concurrence."
He said he hopes his service "will reflect well on all of them."
Speaking of Judge Harrington Wood Jr. and his elevation to the Appellate Court, Ackerman said with a grin, "Now there's a hard act to follow."

Rapist sought

Granite City police are seeking a man who allegedly raped a 25-year-old Kirkpatrick Homes woman in the 2400 block of East 23rd Street at 12:45 a.m. Wednesday.
Police saw the woman in the 2600 block of East 23rd Street at 1:35 a.m. Wednesday, walking alone the street, crying and bleeding from the mouth.
When questioned by police, the woman said she was waiting for two friends to meet her and a man grabbed her from behind. When she screamed, he struck her on the face with his fist, breaking a tooth and a denture.
She said she was dragged behind the apartments in that block and was raped. The man told her, "I'm sorry I hit you so hard. I just wanted you to stop screaming," she related. She declined medical treatment.

MADISON COUNTY HOMEMAKERS Granite City Unit parade float seen during the Quad-Cities' U. S. Bicentennial celebration. Also represented in the pioneering display are the Patchworkers Homemakers of Tomorrow.

CULINARY ARTS and homemaking skills pose a challenge for the family using century-old kitchen pots, irons and utensils. The scene was one of a number exhibited during the Bicentennial weekend at St. John's United Church of Christ.

New supply center benefits local area telephone users

Illinois Bell customers in the Quad-Cities will directly benefit from a new supply and warehousing system which is now in operation in Springfield. The Granite City plant center is one of 33 which will be served directly by the new Western Electric Springfield service distribution center now open for business.

The center combines the use of computers with the latest warehousing techniques to assure a continuing supply of frequently used items, ranging from paper clips to phone booths, and easy access to all other Bell System equipment. The new telephone supply center, located on a 7.5-acre site on Springfield's southern outskirts, will stock 3,200 commonly used items. It covers 36,200 square feet, 10,000 square feet of which are used by Illinois Bell for warehousing and trucking. In addition to supplying ongoing needs for material and equipment from the area served, an estimated 1,200 telephone sets a day will be received at the center to be sent to West Chicago for repair. The first of its kind outside the Chicago area, the center is also the first of its kind in Western Electric's four-state central region. The region covers Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin.

The Springfield service distribution center is linked by

Ransack office

Two boys were seen climbing over the south fence at Jenkinson-Wright Corp., 22nd Street and the railroad tracks, Tuesday and guards later found the supervisor's office in the Jenette Plant had been broken into and ransacked.

There were no signs of forced entry to the Jenette Plant building, but the glass in the door to the supervisor's office from the interior of the plant was broken.

Two quart beer bottles, one broken, were found on the floor of the plant. A watchman said he saw two boys climb out over the fence and was held as evidence. Officials said they were unable to determine how the bicycle got inside the fence, since all the gates were locked. The plant officials could find nothing missing.

Candee Downs becomes Mrs. Eric V. Rozycki

St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church was the scene of the wedding on Saturday, July 3, of Miss Candee L. Downs, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jackie D. Downs, 2817 W. 22nd St., and Eric V. Rozycki, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent T. Rozycki, 2809 Wayne Ave. Father Edward Groesch officiated at the double ring ceremony at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Baskets of mums, stocks and pinks in pastel hues, intermingled with pink ribbons, decorated the sanctuary. Peggy Marling sang "Sunrise, Sunset," "The Wedding Song," "Theme from Romeo and Juliet," "Follow Me" and "The Lord's Prayer." She was accompanied by Mrs. Pat Brummitt at the organ. Sandra Merz presided over the guest book at a dinner reception held at the Croatian Home in Madison at 6:30 in the evening.

A rehearsal dinner was given for the wedding party on Friday evening at Charlie's Restaurant by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rozycki.

Escorted to the altar by her father the bride chose a full-length gown of white organza designed with a Venice lace bodice, featuring a V-neckline and shepherdess sleeves enhanced with Venice lace motifs.

A deep ruffled flounce edged with matching lace encircled the full flowing skirt which extended into chapel train.

Her veil was held in place with a lace and pearl Juliet cap. She carried a summer bouquet of white and pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Full-length dresses of flocked organza in floral pink or white print designed with short puffed sleeves, V-necklines, edged with tiny ruffles, and flounced skirt were worn by the attendants.

Each wore a white picture hat and held a bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Honor attendant was Cathy Rippy. Bridesmaids included Penny Downs, sister of the bride, Debra Ming and Debra Rozycki, the groom's sister.

Ringbearer and flower girl were Kim and Jeff Swiatek, cousins of the groom. She was dressed in a long white frock in a style to match the bridal gown. She wore a white ribbon in her hair and carried a basket of roses.

Attending the groom as best man was Robert Fechte. Groomsmen and ushers included Charles Schmidt, Jeff Kindel, Bruce Elliott, Tommy Beck and Don Petroff.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Downs selected a formal-length rose knit Empire style gown accented with Venice lace and complemented with a white accessories. The groom's mother was attired in a long turquoise knit and chiffon dress, featuring an Empire waistline. Her accessories were in silver.

Both mothers wore white Sweetheart rose corsages. The newly married Mr. and Mrs. Rozycki left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Canada. Both graduated from Granite City High School South.

The former Miss Downs is employed as a keypunch operator at the First Granite City National Bank. Her husband is attending Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Postmasters offer vacation suggestions

Postmasters in the Quad-Cities have offered several suggestions to area residents in regard to mail while a family is on vacation.

(1) Ask a friend or neighbor to empty the mailbox daily and to hold the mail until the vacationer returns; or a person may ask the post office to hold mail up to 30 days.

(2) A person may have mail forwarded by arranging a change of address for up to 90 days.

(3) While traveling, mail early in the day.

(4) Buy enough stamps before leaving to prevent running out when not near a post office.

(5) Remember picture postcards not larger than the standard 4 1/2 x 6 inches require a nine-cent stamp; jumbo cards and letters weighing up to one ounce require a 13-cent stamp, with 11 cents for each additional ounce.

(6) It is also suggested a person write or type the names, addresses and zip codes of friends and relatives on envelopes or labels before leaving home.

TO MARRY. Miss Carolyn North, whose engagement to Lewis Wood is being announced by her parents, Mrs. Velma Cantlon, 1633 Fourth St., Madison and Frank Cantlon, 4121 Breckenridge Lane. An August wedding is planned.

Gospel sing at New Life Center

The Harvesters Quartet and the Beacon Lights will perform in concert at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the New Life Singing Center, located at East 25th and August streets.

The public is invited to attend the program, according to Norman Fenton, center director, who said gospel singing concerts are being held at the center on the first and third Saturday nights of each month at 7:30.

Widely known in the area, the Harvesters Quartet is from St. Louis and has appeared at various functions, including the Illinois Gospel Singing Convention.

The Beacon Lights is a new and upcoming group from Granite City. They have performed previously at the New Life Singing Center and provided first-class entertainment, Fenton said.

Saints Church is established here

Elder Duane Couey, a member of the first presidency of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, spoke at the consecration service of a newly-acquired church and mission house located at 620 Niedringhaus Ave.

The service was planned and presided over by its recently designated pastor, Elder Sid Faulkner. A congregational charge was presented by the stake designate president, High Priest Sebe S. Morgan.

Elder Couey, who came here from the RLDS world church headquarters in Independence for the consecration service, presented a sermon at an East St. Louis branch and at a dedication service in the evening at still another Saints Church in Holly Hills.

At the Granite City Mission House consecration, he spoke of a qualitative progress as being more desirable and possible than quantitative progress in the church.

Elder Couey has served extensively in the evangelistic mission fields in the Far East, the Philippines, Latin America, Africa and India. He is particularly concerned about and helpful to St. Louis RLDS Saints as they work toward becoming a "stake of Zion."

At the consecration service, Deacon James L. Bowman Jr. and his wife, Elizabeth, were in charge of music.

Bowman played the piano for solos by Elizabeth and then played and sang a duet.

His service to the church ranges from pianist and tenor soloist to acting, building, antique collecting and Aeronautics ministry.

Deacon Bowman has been a music teacher for seven years

Salad lunch for Trio Homemakers

A salad luncheon was served to 27 members and two guests, Norine VanOrder and Edna Miller, at a meeting Tuesday of the Trio Unit, Madison County Homemakers Extension Association.

The group convened at Hope Lutheran Church under the direction of Mrs. Louise Smith, newly elected chairman. Hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. Ada Matras, Mrs. Auretta Santagato and Mrs. Louise Anderson.

"Planning and Using Mini-Meals" was the lesson presented by Mrs. Clara Schilling and Mrs. Alice Pfoerder. They described several methods of preparation, cautioning that mini-meals must be well planned and contain nutritious items. The speakers were introduced by Mrs. Ruth Brave.

In the business session, Mrs. Helen Robertson reported the unit now has 52 registered members.

Mrs. Helen Roessner, health-safety chairman, warned of home canning procedures which may result in health hazards. Several members indicated they will attend the annual homemakers camp Jacksonville, Ill., Aug. 4. A variety of activities is planned, including craft sessions, swimming and hiking, Mrs. Smith reported.

Gifts were awarded to Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Emma Jakich and Mrs. Marie Durbin. The next meeting was set for Sept. 7.

MRS. MARY RARDIN ENTERTAINS GUESTS

Mrs. Mary E. Rardin of Madison entertained guests during the weekend, including Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schuermann of Mattoon, Mrs. Charlene McKinney of Belleville, a granddaughter; and Mrs. Fay Sylvia Woodard of Steelville, Mo., her daughter.

Pastor ordained from St. Peter Church to be honored Sunday

St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ, 21st Street and Cleveland Boulevard, will continue its 75th anniversary celebration at 9:30 a.m. Sunday when the Rev. John M. Mimitz, a "son of the congregation," is welcomed.

The Rev. Mimitz will speak on the topic, "All the King's Men." He was ordained from St. Peter Church in 1952 under the Rev. H. H. Wintermyer, presently pastor emeritus of the church.

Included in Sunday's program will be a special presentation to the Rev. Mimitz by Calvin Bartels, church president, on behalf of the congregation.

Music for the worship service is being arranged by Dr. Robert Hutcheson, organist-choir-master. The Rev. Robert Kettehut, pastor, will serve as liturgist.

After the service, the Evening Guild will host a coffee hour in honor of the Rev. Mimitz and his family. Both the Rev. Mimitz and his wife, Barbara, were confirmed at St. Peter Church and are 1945 graduates of Granite City High School. Known as "Bud," the minister is a nephew of Mrs. Herbert Gerbig and his wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Arbogast. All are members of the church.

The Mimitz' have five children and two grandchildren. The Rev. Mimitz is a graduate of Elmhurst College (1949) and Eden Theological Seminary (1952). He has served pastorates in South Dakota, Nebraska and Indiana. Presently, he is serving at Zion Reformed United Church of Christ at Lawrenceburg, Ind. During the 9:30 service Sunday, church school classes and child care will be provided. Ample parking is available in an adjacent area. Ushers will be on hand to assist handicapped persons.

Throughout this year, St. Peter Church is highlighting its 75-year-old history. Five men from the congregation have been ordained into the ministry and all three of those living will have visited the local church by the year's end.

The church was organized in 1901 and the first building was erected at the present location in 1903. Continuing a program of upkeep on its modern facilities, the congregation recently completed air conditioning all buildings.

Don Bellman, chairman of the Special Events Committee, said future plans for the 75th anniversary year include a visit by the Rev. Robert Baumann on Sept. 12 when former pastors will be honored. Anniversary Sunday is scheduled Dec. 5 to climax the celebration.

Dynamite in illegal sale unrelated to bombs here

Authorities said today there is no apparent connection between dynamite allegedly sold illegally in the last few weeks in St. Louis and two dynamite bombs found June 18 in the 2800 block of Harding Boulevard.

St. Louis bomb and arson squad investigators said the lot numbers on the dynamite recovered in a St. Peters, Mo., man's home Tuesday did not match the lot numbers on the dynamite found with the two bombs deactivated in Granite City.

Thomas Gettemeyer, 27, St. Peters, was arrested Tuesday morning in St. Louis and a warrant was issued charging him with four counts of selling explosives.

The investigators allege Gettemeyer sold about 24 sticks of dynamite, 61 blasting caps and 20 feet of fuse from his car to four persons, including Russell Walts, 23, of 2643 Circle Drive, Granite City, in St. Louis.

All of the dynamite, blasting caps and fuse allegedly sold has been recovered. Walts was arrested June 30 in St. Louis and charged with possession of explosives after six sticks of dynamite, 10 blasting caps and 10 feet of fuse were allegedly found in his auto. The car had been stopped on a routine traffic investigation.

An investigation into the origin of the dynamite led bomb and arson detectives to discover three other customers and eventually led to Gettemeyer, a part-time instructor at a West St. Louis trade school.

They alleged Gettemeyer purchased the dynamite legally from a Union, Mo., distributor to blast some tree stumps from yards.

The remainder of two 50-pound cases of dynamite Gettemeyer purchased were found in his home and he was ordered to return them to the Authorities emphasized the dynamite was in his possession legally and he is charged only with the four counts of selling dynamite illegally.

The three other persons who allegedly purchased dynamite from Gettemeyer have not been charged, authorities said.

GC Town Board resets meetings

An ordinance rescheduling the regular meetings of the Granite City Town Board from Monday nights to Tuesday nights was enacted by the board in a meeting preceding the City Council meeting Tuesday night. The Town Board is made up of City Council members.

The ordinance corresponds to one passed a week earlier resetting the council sessions on Tuesday night instead of Monday. Town Board meetings are held just before regular council sessions.

Under the new ordinances, the City Council will meet at 8 p.m. on the first, third and fourth Tuesdays of each month, and the Town Board will meet at 7:45 p.m. on the first and third Tuesday of each month.

notified of a suit filed in circuit court by William and Wanda MacDonough, 3153 Aubrey Ave., and Steven and Jenifer Moore, 3165 Aubrey Ave., against the city.

Each family asks $7,500 for damages which they say occurred on July 1, 1974, when sewage backed into their homes after pumping operations failed.

Immediately following the council's action, Mayor Paul Schuler announced the appointment of Dave Nolan, 2620 Delmar Ave., a former employee of the city engineering department, to fill the position.

A resolution creating the position said the engineering technician's duties would consist of drafting, surveying, design work and engineering inspection.

Nolan, who will assume his duties July 15, is a graduate of Southern Illinois University and worked for the city engineering department for about six months a year ago, under the

The job was awarded on a bid of $2,382 for replacement of fence sections that have been torn out by autos in accidents along 23rd Street and along Nameoki Road from 23rd to Edwardsville Road. The firm was the only bidder.

An advertisement to recall $303,000 worth of bonds for the Nameoki Particular Sewer Area 2 was authorized in a resolution adopted by the council. The bonds will be retired early to save the city approximately $135,000 in interest.

The aldermen enacted an ordinance prohibiting interference with a public officer in the performance of his duties and fixing a fine of from $50 to $500 for violation.

Growing role for computers is seen

Digital wristwatches and pocket calculators are prime examples of the part computers play in our lives, and this influence is sure to grow in the future, according to Leonard C. Jones, professor of engineering and technology at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Professor Jones, the first scientist to ever touch moon rocks with his bare hands, gives most of the credit for these developments to the space program. He said that man's effort to get to the moon led to miniaturization of computers at a reduced cost to consumers.

"Everyday, people can see this in terms of sales of digital watches under $20," Jones said. "Ten years ago, it would have cost eight or ten times as much. My watch that cost about $60 has over 2,000 components in it."

"Computers may some day be an even bigger part of everyday lives. The fact that we probably allow machines to present things in a different manner," Jones said.

"Most computers already have interfacing CRTs (a television-type unit called a cathode ray tube). A home owner might want to look at a video-taped set of information that has an inventory of a store and price information. He can use the phone and have the information displayed on his television."

If the electronic model of a store catalog is in our future, Jones said, perhaps even a bank account can be displayed on a home television set, like an instant bank statement.

"We use credit cards now," he said. "Someday, we may have individual coding — such as our fingerprints."

"Perhaps you could speak into your phone, just one word, and a computer could make an elaborate analysis of your voice. This would mean a big change in credit and in crime fighting."

"Man can use the means of communications he has and make it of far more service to him," he said.

"Someday, we may just speak toward our front door when we come home at night. Our voice will make the door open for us."

"In industry perhaps, certain people will be able to touch a door with the palms of their hands and the door will open after analyzing the hand prints."

"Computers can handle huge amounts of information, and all of this can be done today. It does not take a prophet to see that this is all possible," he said.

"When I was in school, most of us did all of our mathematics problems by hand. Today, students have calculators in their pockets to solve the same problems and I needed tables of sines and cosines to solve."

"By the Tricentennial, homes may be completely automated. We already have automated stoves and microwaves. We might also have automated automated profiles of temperatures for our air conditioners, year in and year out."

The professor said, "We might have our home purchasing and all our accounts automated. Someday, we may not receive a bill and then send a check. We can make all of these functions completely automatic."

"Some stores are already using computers to perform everyday chores. For example, the Schnuck's grocery chain is using the Universal Product Code (UPC) at checkout lines. The checkout unit scans various sized lines on the product package, and this information is changed into digital information, or computer language. A price is given to the register for the product. This type of equipment has an added advantage, since it can also keep an accurate item-by-item inventory."

Professor Jones said that man already has the knowledge to computerize all types of everyday functions. They might never be done simply, because man does not want everything computerized, he added.

He theorized that the television and telephone link up has not been successful because of the "implied invasion of privacy."

"Once people started using them, they would like the system. But the cost is too high for people to want them."

"I tend to think that when people come out of the bathtub, they do not want to be on television."

He believes that the home television set will continue to be improved. Someday, the display unit will be flat and mounted on the wall like pictures, he said. "People may subscribe for information on radio or telemetry links to their homes."

With all those computers that will be in tomorrow's homes, people will be able to operate them without special training? Jones said computer programming may take a trained technician, but computer operation will be simple enough for an average person.

He also believes it might not be necessary to get up and push a button for the computer to do its job. Jones thinks that computers can be produced so that people won't even have to give verbal commands.

"We are finding that the human body has many machines within it," he said. "Man will find less need for instrumentation."

"If I can think enough to move a lever on a machine — and students in California are now doing this with alpha and beta brain waves — then I can go ahead and communicate with my mind to either the machine, or mind-to-mind with the person I want to contact."

When man and machine evolve, will the stock market clerks of the world be put out of work because of machines doing the mental labor? Prof. Jones said, "I think that for every stock clerk put out of work, three to ten times as many jobs have opened up due to this technology."

"Training, the earlier the better, will help people get jobs in the new computer fields," he said.

Even though the professor thinks many jobs may become automated, he says to not rush out and learn a new trade yet. He admitted there are many things machines can never do for humans.

"The day of the programmed car that takes you to work is possible but not probably," he said. "A moving object needs constant input about the other moving objects around it."

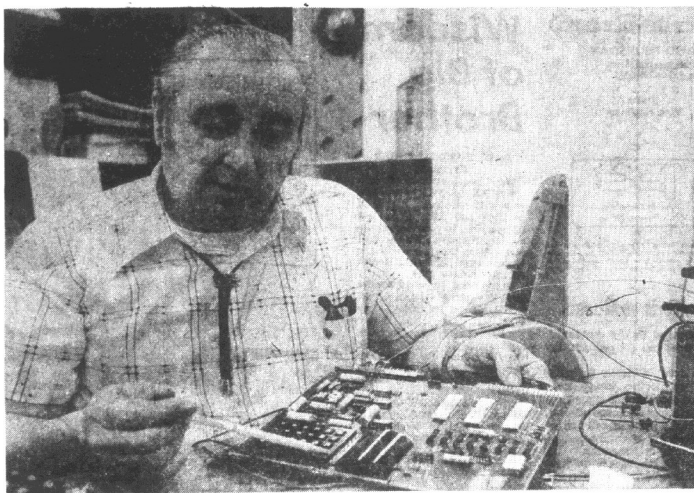

"I think that if humans wanted this badly enough, it would be possible. But I don't think many people would want a computerized car."

Short agenda for Board of Appeals

The Granite City Board of Appeals will meet at 1:15 p.m. Wednesday, July 14, at the city offices at 2801 Adams St. with only one item on the agenda.

Jimmie D. Smith, 3132 Jill Ave., is requesting a variance to construct a garage three feet from his side property line. The property is in an R-2 residential district.

The board also will consider any other business brought before it.

MINI-COMPUTER CAPACITY is mind-boggling. Prof. Leonard C. Jones of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville School of Science and Technology says. He is looking at a mini-computer in a computer laboratory at SIUE. This panel is capable of storing thousands of information bits. The professor, who says computer technology is a result of the United States space program, was the first scientist to touch a moon rock with his bare hands.

Call bids for bridge repair

The Venice City Council Tuesday authorized Duane Georgeff, McKinley Tool Bridge manager, to advertise for bids for the reconstruction of the east approach to the bridge.

The project is expected to cost about $300,000, to be paid with Community Development funds, and from the bridge repair fund.

Additional federal aid is being sought by the City Council.

Hardisty and Hanover, consulting engineers of New York and trustees for the bond holders, have approved bid specification. Contractors, qualified by the state, may obtain copies of the specification and plans from the bridge office at 802 Main St., Venice.

Scaled bids are scheduled to be opened at the July 20 council meeting. The council is reserving the right to reject any and all bids.

Work on the project is expected to take three months. However, traffic will not be opened at anytime, but will be narrowed to one lane in each direction.

The daily average of vehicle crossings during June was 8,422 for a total of 282,654 vehicles crossing the bridge during the month.

Georgeff said, "This is an increase of 50 cars a day over last month and is about 1,200 vehicles a day increase over the same month last year. Even with the other bridges now open, many people are finding our bridge, with the underpass now in use, the best route to connect with interstate highways and downtown St. Louis."

The council approved an agreement with the Illinois Department of Transportation to deduct 50 per cent of the monthly motor fuel tax monies to help pay for the city's share ($50,000) of the extra dewatering work done on the underpass project.

"Everyone did great, and I think the press coverage in the Press-Record before and during the event was excellent. We have a lot to be proud of in Venice."

It was noted by Harry Hartman, city attorney, that assessed valuation in the city has dropped from nearly $48 million in 1958 to $30 million in 1976.

Intense interest here in whether death penalty is restored

Capital punishment — humane or barbaric?

Not seen in the United States since 1967, the death penalty is being revived due to the U.S. Supreme Court's July 2 and July 6, 1976, rulings and due to many state governments' interest in utilizing it in extreme cases. Illinois legislators are certain to give it new consideration.

Eyewitness accounts of executions, describing in detail the effect of the hangman's noose or the impact of powerful jolts of electricity, have made maximum punishment distasteful to most people.

The terror and pain and despair associated with the murder of innocent persons usually are unknown to the public; such feelings go to the graves with the victims.

Opponents of capital punishment say it is cruel and that even the threat of it creates many months of anxiety and uncertainty for prisoners accused of major crimes. They contend that crime rates remain about the same with or without the death penalty, and say it never has been proven to be a deterrent.

Those who favor capital punishment cite the tragic maiming and killing of a needlessly large number of present and potential victims, attributing the growing frequency of such acts to law violators' recklessness, encouraged by the criminals' belief that executions no longer can be carried out.

Proponents say fear of death logically does deter some prospective wrongdoers. They add that those who are sentenced are not free to commit more heinous crimes; execution assures that a prisoner will not be inappropriately freed by a future judge, parole board, governor or President.

There is fear that an innocent individual might be convicted in error. An imprisoned man can be released if exonerated, but there is no way to reverse an execution, it is pointed out.

But the fear that can pervade a neighborhood or community when crime is rampant also merits society's serious concern.

"Survival of the fittest" must not be the only choice offered to those who cannot or will not arm themselves to the teeth. Nor must punishment for evil deeds be so lax that citizens and officers are tempted to serve as their own "judge, jury and executioner."

The issue is complex and will bear further soul-searching and debate. There will be intense interest in the Quad-Cities, where a native son is among the prisoners newly in jeopardy, and where a multi-state murder spree that took two local lives ended in executions in Kansas a few years ago.

Unwise for Illinois legislators to legalize 'policy' games

Press-Record Springfield Bureau — Tempted by the prospect of obtaining funds for the state, the House has passed a bill that would legalize "policy" games in Illinois.

By making these games legal, according to the theory, the state can levy a tax on the gross receipts of the games, thereby bringing into the general revenue fund, some experts estimate, as much as $6 million a year.

It appears that lawmakers are operating under the misconception that policy games are run by respectable organizations. Such groups are easily regulated and regularly turn over a certain percentage of their bingo earnings to the state as tax money.

We would caution the legislature that policy operations in no way can be compared with bingo.

Political parties' platforms likely to provide a contrast

Press-Record Washington Bureau — It is conventional to put down the national platforms of both major parties as nothing more than platitudes wrapped in ambiguity and swathed in several layers of political opportunism.

But, in fact, the platforms of the two parties are likely to be different in significant ways that tell a great deal about the difference in the parties.

The pundits have been pronouncing eulogies for the funeral of the two-party system for years but all of these have proved to be premature — and for a good reason.

Traditions going back more than a century give each of the two major parties a distinctive character, a personality profile spelled out nowhere more clearly than in their national platforms.

Party loyalty may be weaker than ever in America. Loyalties may shift in a person's lifetime or in a geographical region in response to changes in situation and attitude.

But that doesn't make party principles meaningless. Allegiances change but the parties remain.

Examine for a moment the major planks of the Democratic platform adopted by the platform committee in Washington:

- Favoring national health insurance.
- Advocating a federally-guaranteed annual income for the poor.
- Supporting full pardons for all Vietnam war draft evaders and individual pardons for deserters on a case-by-case basis.
- Urging "horizontal" divestiture of corporations owning competing types of energy, such as coal and oil.

Does anyone expect the Republican platform to include such planks, however thickly wrapped in cotton balling?

The Democratic platform has been carefully framed, as the Republican platform will be. Both deserve careful and conscientious study.

Bicentennial was memorable and meaningful—Pres. Ford

By PRESIDENT
GERALD R. FORD

We now mark the beginning of our third century as an independent nation as well as the 200th anniversary of the American Revolution.

For two centuries, our nation has grown, changed and flourished.

A diverse people, drawn from all corners of the earth, have joined together to fulfill the promise of democracy.

America's Bicentennial is rich in history and in the promise and potential of the years that also retain and strengthen our traditions, background and personal freedom.

As we lay the cornerstone of America's third century, I commend the officials and citizens of Granite City on their Bicentennial activities.

Efforts such as this are helping to make our great national celebration a memorable and meaningful one for all.

Thus, in joining together as

Wisdom of Big Brother

By RICHARD L. LESHER

President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

For all of you who have wondered whatever happened to Dick and Jane since last encountered in your first-grade reader: They are alive and well and editing pamphlets for the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

In evidence, I quote from the first two paragraphs of a new OSHA booklet entitled "Safety With Beef Cattle":

"The best way to not have an accident is to prevent it. Be careful around the farm. You can keep an accident from happening by following safety rules."

"Hazards are one of the main causes of accidents. A hazard is anything that is dangerous."

Some other gems from the same booklet:

"Don't get too tired. You can get too tired when working with cattle."

"Watch your step. Many people trip over animals, and fall."

"Be patient; talk softly around the cows." (And carry a big stick?)

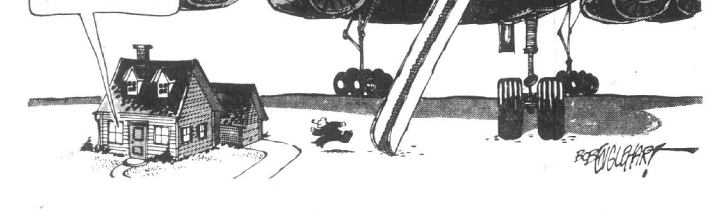

"When you are hauling cattle, do not put too many in the truck."

"When you are working around wastes, you need plenty of fresh air."

"Be careful that you do not fall into the manure pits."

This sage advice — written at the reading level of your average child — is part of a series of pamphlets that will cost the taxpayer about $300,000, so OSHA is having the last laugh after all.

While OSHA demonstrates a firm grasp of the obvious, the Internal Revenue Service is having the opposite trouble.

In a random test, IRS taxpayer assistance personnel answered typical taxpayer questions incorrectly one out of four times, according to Rep. Charles A. Vanik (D-Ohio).

The staff of his Ways and Means Oversight subcommittee conducted the survey. In all, they asked 124 questions and got 32 wrong answers.

And that's comparatively good. An internal IRS survey conducted last year turned up an error rate of 72 per cent.

But IRS, too, has the last laugh. If you make an error on your tax return, it's your responsibility. And if incorrect IRS advice causes you to make the error, it's still your responsibility.

Heads, they win; tails, you lose. Maybe the answer is to crossbreed the people who write IRS forms with the people who write OSHA pamphlets.

Meanwhile, the Environmental Protection Agency has discovered — at a cost of only $4.2 million — that poorly tuned engines generate more pollution than properly tuned engines, something that any good mechanic could have told them for free.

Speaking of pollution, EPA still provides subsidized parking for its employees, as do many other federal agencies. It's a practice EPA does not recommend for other employers. Too many cars in the center of town cause pollution.

And speaking of disapproved practices, the U.S. Customs Service recently nabbed an expensive foreign car that a government official was trying to smuggle into the country. Seems it didn't meet emission and safety standards. Guess which agency the officials work for?

Not to be outdone, that other diligent guardian of our safety (if not our sanity), the Consumer Product Safety Commission, is still laboring away trying to write a standard that will prevent matches from burning your fingers (or much of anything else). But not to worry: In three years, it has managed to produce only one standard, dealing with swimming pool slides.

That's enough for now, folks. Keep smiling through your tears. And until we meet again, try hard not to fall into those manure pits.

(The U.S. Labor Department said during the weekend it will rewrite the controversial farm safety booklet that has been described as demeaning to farm workers.)

2-year governor faces tough term

By KEN WATSON

SPRINGFIELD — When the new Illinois Constitution was being drafted in 1970 there was considerable controversy surrounding many of its provisions.

But one major change that received the support of just about everyone was the provision that all statewide offices be elected in off-years.

Convention delegates and students of state government agreed that it would function better if those charged with the responsibility for conducting it were chosen on their own merits rather than in office on the coattails of a popular presidential candidate.

That logic still holds today. Ironically, however, the Illinois shift to off-year election of the governor and all other state officers is coming at an especially inappropriate time.

To establish an off-year pattern of state elections it was necessary to limit one governor term to two years, before the normal four-year term could be resumed.

This means that the man elected in November will have to face the voters again in less than 18 months assuming he has opposition in his party's primary, a distinct possibility.

The sad prospect is that Illinois is going to be saddled with a two-year governor at about the worst possible time in its history.

Either Republican James R. Thompson or Democrat Michael J. Howlett is going to step into the governor's office next January faced with Illinois' most severe financial crisis in more than 40 years.

It is as likely as not that the November victor not only will have the historical distinction of being the only governor elected to a two-year term, but also as one who presided over a bankrupt state.

Over the years Illinois voters have usually granted their governors two four-year terms. It has generally been accepted that a new governor needs at least four years to learn the ropes administratively and legislatively and that even four years is not enough time in which to expect him to make much of a record.

But people have become more impatient in recent years and neither Howlett nor Thompson expects any sympathy upon being chosen for the two-year trial.

Men obviously recognize the scope of the challenge that faces the next governor and each has taken some similar steps toward meeting it.

Both have announced plans for forming of blue-ribbon committees of prominent business, labor and other leaders to study the fiscal outlook and suggest some solutions.

The possibility has developed that Thompson and Howlett might agree on one joint committee to tackle the problem.

Such a move would recognize that the Illinois financial plight is becoming so deep that it cannot be resolved without some effort that goes far beyond politics as usual.

No one knowledgeable about the fiscal situation would expect any effective solution over the next two years. The challenge during that period will be to stave off complete financial collapse.

To get Illinois back on an even fiscal keel is going to take from four to six years at least and perhaps longer.

It will probably require a sweeping reorganization of state agencies, a restructuring of the over-all tax structure with some tax increases along the way.

Many accustomed state services are going to have to be cut or abolished. It may become more difficult for all who wish to go to college.

About all the really effective moves to shore up the state's finances are political-ly unpopular. Any governor who tried to carry them out strictly on his own would quickly be in as much trouble as a relief pitcher on a windy day in Wrigley Field.

The next governor is going to be operating in circumstances unknown to any predecessor.

General ranks high in state history

To the Editor:

Quad-Citizens, I am so sorry that I was unable to be at the July 3, 1976, to witness probably the greatest parade on record in the Quad-Cities.

It is most appropriate that also, during the Bicentennial, you have chosen to honor your native son, General Andrew Jackson Goodpastor.

Gen. Goodpastor without a doubt ranks among the most esteemed people from Illinois in the history of our state.

I am sure that July 3, 1976 is a day that you will remember for years to come.

CHARLES H. PERCY
United States senator

Favors state employ wage boost

To the Editor:

I have read with regret that Illinois legislators have refused to appropriate funds for a 4 per cent wage increase for prison guards and mental health employees.

This increase is very moderate, since it does not even keep up with inflation, which has been seven per cent recently.

Chicago Democrats have opposed it for puzzling tactical reasons, in combination with Republicans who are trying desperately to keep the budget within limits.

I recognize that some members of my own party disagree with me on this, but I feel it is better in the long run to be statesmanlike on wages—rather than force inflation—pinched employees into confrontation tactics.

Unless we can somehow alter this unjust action, we are likely to see an explosion of pent-up anger in a public employee strike, unfortunately.

We would do better to refrain from starting up new projects, like the new State Expo Center, rather than economize at the expense of state employees.

GLENN T. WILSON
Republican candidate for State Senate, 6th District

Goal of all—equal justice under law

To the Editor:

A few years ago, when I appeared before the United States Supreme Court in Washington, I was immediately impressed with the inscription on the front of the court building.

The inscription on the building housing the most powerful entity in the strongest nation in the world is beautiful and powerful in its simplicity, and yet it sums up what our nation is all about.

The inscription is just four words: "Equal justice under law."

For 200 years, we in this republic have worked and fought to achieve the goal so simply expressed in that one simple phrase.

In spite of all of the changes in the culture of our people across two centuries, despite the ebbs and flows of different parties in our social thought, in spite of all the pressures of modern civilization, we have guarded and strengthened the legal system the founders of this nation gave us, with the one goal in mind—"Equal justice under law."

That simple but great concept of the purpose of our nation is given life and strength by the rule of law by each law-abiding citizen of this nation and state.

Those of us who are charged with the responsibility of the rule of law that makes us a nation and state salute all of you who give strength and life to our goal as a people: "Equal justice under law."

WILLIAM J. SCOTT
Illinois Attorney General

Hope for Carter-Stevenson ticket

To the Editor:

Namekoti Township Democrat Precinct Committeemen Jerry Adams, Art Thies, Helen Hawkins and Bob Dew and Committee Woman Ruth Adams are sponsoring a public meeting of 23rd Congressional District delegates at the Democratic headquarters, 6312 State St., East St. Louis.

Mrs. Hawkins told the group that she ran as a candidate for delegate for Jimmy Carter, when people said, "Who's Jimmy Carter?"

"I am even prouder now to make a motion for the delegates to cast your votes on the first and succeeding ballots for Jimmy Carter," she said.

The motion was seconded by Adams and approved unanimously.

Illinois State Treasurer Alan

J. Dixon said, "I will convey that intelligence personally to Carter."

Illinois Senator Adlai Stevenson will be boosted by the 169 delegates for the Illinois 1st district put on the ballot, Dixon said.

New Fuller dream—world referendum

SPRINGFIELD — Pollsters will have a field day if R. Buckminster Fuller gets the world-wide referendum on government.

At a meeting of the American Institute of Architects in Philadelphia, architect and philosopher Fuller proposed that a "true world-wide democracy" could be established via satellite which could record the opinions of everyone below it on how they want to be governed. For that the architects gave him a standing ovation.

There are others who would rather look at Fuller in a geodesic dome and throw away the floor plan.

Chief among them should be those people who sit in congresses, assemblies, parliaments, village councils and the like.

When Fuller gets his satellite in life, we won't need those people anymore. If all the people of the planet can mutually decide what government is best for us, we should also determine the daily operations of that government.

Politicians will be reduced to mere satellite monitors of public opinion.

Another faction which Fuller's folly are the professional lobbyists.

Unlike politicians, lobbyists won't lose their jobs. On the contrary they will have more work than ever cut out for them.

Whereas at one time they only had to wine and dine few legislators to receive favorable consideration, world-wide democracy requires that an entire state, or a nation be so entertained.

That certainly will tax some corporations far beyond their capabilities to buy favors or sell contracts.

Yet those are long range problems. The immediate consequences are more pressing. From the point of logistics alone the possibility is staggering.

Where are the Rogers and Gallups, assuming at least one of them gets the contract, going to find enough tally takers to meet the task?

Who pays the bill for this monumental election?

That question at least is easy to answer: The taxpayers of the world, that's who. That is about the only point to which world leaders are likely to agree when setting up this gargantuan opinion survey.

But we must accept some of Fuller's optimism. At least we can assume enough success to have a go at "true world democracy" via satellite.

Then on referendum day, shortly after the first polls open in some remote corner of the Earth, Walter Cronkite may advise us that:

"Based on a sampling of electors in one-one-hundred-seventeenth of the world's precincts and first returns from a half per cent of the precincts in Page Page the world is going to have a tribal chief government."

COLORFUL MARCHING BAND of Granite City High School South helps provide stirring music for the U. S. Bicentennial parade here while advancing smartly along the route from the GCHS South area through Madison to the Venice City Hall.

SPRITELY MARCHERS and snappy dressers are these musicians of the Granite City High School North band. The group was photographed while taking part in the Quad-City area's parade heralding the 200th anniversary of the United States.

Opening acts at River Fest include entertainment stars

The recent signing of Firefall, a hot new country-rock group, to be opening act for the July 28 performance of Loggins and Messina at the Mississippi River Festival, has prompted Festival Director Lyle Ward to comment that "this is the best opening act season we've had."

This year's Festival, held on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has a number of "name" groups supporting the top attraction for an evening," said Ward. "We are quite fortunate to have opening acts with this kind of drawing power."

Among the "name" attractions mentioned by Ward are Melba Moore, appearing with the Spinners on July 20; Sonny James and the Southern Gentlemen, who appeared with Jim Stafford on July 2; Emmylou Harris, who appeared with Jesse Colin Young on July 6; the Atlanta Rhythm Section, appearing with Todd Rundgren on July 13; and Tom Chapin, appearing with Gordon Lightfoot on July 27.

Other major opening attractions include Grinderswitch, which appeared with the Marshall Tucker Band on July 7; Vally, appearing with the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band on Aug. 4; Andrew Gold, appearing with Linda Ronstadt on Aug. 8; the Scott Air Force Base Band, appearing with the St. Louis Symphony on Aug. 14; the British Airways Silver Wing Brass Band, appearing with the Scottish National Orchestra Chorus and the St. Louis Symphony Saturday, July 10; and Firefall, appearing with Loggins and Messina on July 28.

"Firefall has been hot lately," said Ward. "The group has a country-rock sound that ought to fit in well with the acoustic sound of Loggins and Messina."

Firefall is led by Rick Roberts, an ex-Flying Burrito Brother, who played with the Burritos in the days of Chris Hillman and Mike Clarke (both original members of the Byrds) and Bernie Leadon (now of the Eagles).

In 1974, Roberts began assembling a new band to play the Colorado Rockies' inspired country-rock that Firefall draws.

It was 1975 before the five-man group was assembled, and only last April that the first album, "Firefall," was issued.

The success of that debut album—currently on Billboard's top 40 album list—helped prompt the group's first national tour, one stop of which will be the Mississippi River Festival.

The Atlanta Rhythm Section, opening the evening for Todd Rundgren on Tuesday, July 13, plays a brand of progressive rock that was a favorite with critics long before the group caught on with the rock public.

The group's first two albums were praised by critics but low on sales. The third album, "Third Annual Pipe Dream," and the latest album, "Red Tape," are said to be proving the critics right and also reaching the record-buying public.

Melba Moore, appearing Tuesday, July 20, with the Spinners, is what Clive Barner of the New York Times called "a delight. Miss Moore has an irresistibly knowing innocence, the timing of a superb comedian and the God-given ability to walk straight into an audience's heart and hang around there."

Miss Moore's start was in the Broadway production of "Hair," followed by "Purlie," for which she received the 1972 Tony award.

After her Broadway success, she expanded to solo performances in concert halls and clubs around the country. She has received the critical comment that she is "probably the most exciting night club performer since Barbara Streisand."

The British Airways Silver Wing Brass Band, appearing with the Scottish National Orchestra Chorus on July 10, is a group formed in 1972 when members of the British Airways Silver Wing Club helped employees working at London's Heathrow Airport to form a brass band.

All of the players are employees of British Airways, with the exception of Stan Tamplin, the band's director and the only professional musician in the group. The band is visiting the St. Louis area as guests of the Highland, Ill. Bicentennial Commission, repaying a visit the Highland High School Band made to England last summer.

Tom Chapin, appearing with Gordon Lightfoot Tuesday, July 27, has been the star of the television series, "Make A Wish," and is a brother of Harry Chapin, who also appeared at the MRF.

Vally, appearing with the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band on Wednesday, Aug. 4, is a Canadian musician who has, according to critics, "established himself as the most important songwriter and performer in Canada today."

Music Canada Quarterly said, "His music evokes a certain tenderness and a gentle sensitivity we all need to be exposed to."

Traffic deaths decreasing here

Traffic deaths in the Quad-Cities during the first half of this year were 43 per cent below the number of fatalities in the same period last year, despite the fact that the number of accidents involving injuries and the number of persons injured increased substantially, statistics compiled by the Press-Record showed today.

During the first half of this year through June 30, nine persons died in traffic accidents occurring in the Quad-City area, or in accidents elsewhere that involved Quad-City residents as victims, the statistics show.

A total of 16 persons died in traffic accidents during the first six months of 1975.

The reduction in this year's traffic death ratio results primarily from a new traffic record set in January, February and March this year, when there were no accident fatalities over the three-month period. In contrast, a total of five persons died in those three months of the previous year. The traffic fatality reduction is in contrast to a 25 per cent increase in the number of accidents in which injuries resulted during the six months period as compared to the same period a year ago, and a 21.3 per cent increase in the number of persons injured in those accidents.

Statistics show that during June there was a total of 75 injury accidents in the Quad-

Cities, in which 101 persons suffered injuries. This brought to 375 the total number of injury accidents so far this year, involving a total of 546 persons injured.

In comparison, a total of 299 injury accidents occurred in the area during the first six months of 1975, resulting in injuries to 450 persons.

These statistics reflect a 25 per cent increase in the number of accidents during the first half of this year over the number of accidents during the same period a year ago, and a 21.3 per cent increase in the number of persons injured during the same period.

Traffic fatalities this year included six during April, one in May and two during June. In 1975, the traffic death record shows one fatality in January, three in February, one in March, four in April, none in May and seven in June.

The total of nine fatalities during the first half of this year establishes a record in recent years for the lowest number of traffic deaths in that period.

In 1974 there were 13 traffic deaths during the six months period; in 1973 there were 13, and in 1972 a total of 11 persons died in accidents within that period. During the first six months of 1971—the year in which a record 46 persons were killed—a total of 28 persons died in traffic accidents during the first half of the year.

Vandalism at Frohardt

Custodians discovered two windows to Room 119 were broken and entry gained by reaching through to unlock and open the windows. The classroom was ransacked and spray paint was sprayed on the walls and blackboards.

In the hallways, kitchen and boiler room, four fire extinguishers were fired on the walls and floors. Boxes of spray paint, books, tools, nuts and bolts, supplies from desks and other items were scattered through the hallways and obstructions were painted on the walls and lockers.

In the kitchen, coffee, tea and food were thrown throughout the area and a large quantity of cheese was burned on the stove. A brace was removed from the south door, which was believed used to exit the school.

Nothing was determined to be missing.

Blood program next week

A Red Cross bloodmobile, under the sponsorship of Church Women United, will be in the Quad-City area four days next week.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 13 through 15, a bloodmobile will be at St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church, 1900 St. Clair Ave., and Friday, July 16, a bloodmobile will be at St. Mary's Catholic Church, 10th Street and Alton Avenue, Madison.

The bloodmobiles will be open from 2 p.m. to 6:45 p.m. each day.

Dr. William V. Miller, director of the Missouri and Illinois Regional Red Cross Blood Program, urged all healthy individuals "to share their good health as blood donors."

He noted one pint of blood can aid more people than ever before, since much blood now is separated into its components.

The red cells can aid a heart patient, who is not actively bleeding; the white cells can help persons fighting an infection, and the separated plasma and cryoprecipitate, can aid a hemophiliac's blood in clotting and helping him from bleeding to death.

"Your blood donation now means more to more people than ever before so we are urging everyone to give blood at the Red Cross Bloodmobiles," Miller concluded.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

Cold reduction of steel begins

(55th of a Bicentennial Year Press-Record series)

Despite the continuation of the economic depression in the United States, Granite City Steel Co. stockholders in the mid-1930s approved issuance of additional shares of stock to provide funds to keep pace with the fast-changing steelmaking technology.

A continuous hot strip mill was installed, followed by a 48-inch, four-high reversing cold strip mill with four rolls in each stand.

The high speed, continuous cold reduction mill not only operated at many times the speed of the old hand mills but, because of its precision, produced a superior product.

The cold working gave the sheet a smooth surface, and so changed the grain structure that after reheating (a process called annealing) it could withstand the stress of forming and drawing operations without breaking or tearing.

This process developed extensively in the steel industry during the period 1930-1939.

By 1937, a $10,000,000 expansion and modernization program was completed.

In 1939, further additions were affected. In order to improve the balance between the hot mill capacity and the cold mill finishing capacity, the company constructed an additional reversing cold strip mill and a temper mill.

This expenditure was financed by a six-year $4,000,000 mortgage loan, maturing serially over the period with interest at 4 1/2 per cent.

One of the major economic problems which arose with the development of the continuous hot and cold strip mill process—and created a dilemma for Granite City Steel—was technological unemployment.

This was a period of depression when mass unemployment already seriously affected the lives of the people of Granite City as well as the rest of the nation.

At the same time, every new strip mill put into operation meant that more men who were dependent on the old hand mill process for employment would find their talents unwanted and their jobs gone.

On the other hand, if the company continued to operate the hand mills and did not accept the modern methods, it would lose business to its competitors because it could not meet the demand for superior sheets in greater quantity.

The management of Granite City Steel Company examined the situation with great care. At that time, the large steel companies had installed the modern continuous process.

Of course, many other small companies were operating hand mills, but this was an obsolete and marginal facility which cost more to operate and produced an inferior product.

Also, the capacity of the new mills would be adequate in depression; therefore, the hands mills would be the first to slacken in the industry.

Consequently, in times of economic depression, the workers would never be sure of full-time employment.

Instead of enjoying a relatively healthy industry in which people were fairly sure of work, the employees in hand mills would be living from day to day in a "sick economy," working one day and off the next, depending on the demand for the product.

The short-run consequences of the modernization were severe; however, the long-run benefits to the economy were substantial. Therefore, it was decided that, all things considered, everyone would profit from modernization of Granite City Steel.

Hayward Niedringhaus tried to explain this situation in March 1939 when, speaking to local civic organizations, he said:

"I know very well that the forced reduction we were compelled to make has caused a great deal of hardship in the community."

"You must remember, however, that if our board of directors had not had the courage to expend this great amount of money necessary to keep the Granite City Steel Company a going concern, that the plants of the company in all probability would have been closed instead of 2,000 men being employed with a potential payroll of $4,000,000 a year."

Granite City Steel was the smallest steel company in the world to install the continuous strip rolling equipment, the next smallest being the Wheeling Steel Corp., with a capital investment of $155,000,000.

Great efforts were made to keep the costs of manufacturing down.

The company spent large sums on construction and machinery, but figured that costs of production would be less with such machinery, so that within a short time the machinery would pay for itself.

Nevertheless, the expansion and modernization program and the training of personnel in the new processes resulted in unavoidably high costs.

In addition, the market in general was unsatisfactory during those years, so net income was adversely affected.

In 1938, the company suffered its first net income deficit, amounting to about $30,230.

Fuller utilization of the aged is proposed

The whole enterprise of education will have to accommodate itself to the fact that larger numbers of people are living longer lives, according to Howard McClusky, nationally-known educator and lecturer.

Speaking at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, McClusky addressed a group of students, educators and people who work with the aged.

"We must face the fact that more and more people are living longer, with more years of vitality and health, higher levels of education and higher expectations from life," McClusky said.

"This is something we have never faced before. Society is going to have to come to terms with it."

The author of a position paper on Education for Older Adults presented at the 1971 White House Conference on Aging, McClusky visited the SIUE campus, sponsored by members of the university's gerontology program: gerontology is the study of the aging process.

The first president of the Adult Education Association in America, McClusky received the Pioneer Award from the Association for his contributions to the field of adult education last year. He is also a professor of education at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor and is the faculty associate in the U. of M. Institute of Gerontology.

Referring to himself as a "recycled retiree," McClusky places the same degree of concern on dealing with larger masses of older people as on coping with the depletion of energy resources or the problem of over-population.

The educator feels that as more older people are integrated into American society, a greater impact will be felt within all of the social institutions, particularly within politics and education. "I don't think the potential political clout of older groups has yet been realized," McClusky said.

If more and more people continue to live longer lives, society will be faced with another dilemma. If the age for mandatory retirement slips forward little by little, the cost of providing Social Security benefits for them will increase.

"One way to reduce the cost of Social Security benefits would be to enable people to work for longer periods during their lifetime so they can contribute to it rather than withdrawing funds from it," McClusky said.

The concept of preparing society to deal with larger masses of older people is relatively new, he added.

"We tend to look at persons in extreme need and consider them the norm. That just isn't so. Only five per cent of the people over 65 are in institutions and another five to seven per cent are disabled enough that they cannot take care of themselves."

"Social scientists have discovered that people do not lose their ability to learn simply because they have grown older. Evidence is quite convincing that the ability to learn does not diminish with age.

"Repeat studies made on the same people over a period of time show that the people were able to do as well on tests given at an older age as they did on earlier tests."

"Our educational system is set up for the first 20 years of our lives, but no provisions have been made for the rest of our lives," McClusky said.

According to the educator, it is never too late to learn.

He said that many 40- to 50-year-olds are going back to school. "The two generations are getting along beautifully together," he said. "Older people are realistic; young people tend to be idealistic. Each needs the other."

Getting people to work for longer periods in their lives would halt the movement of older people away from the mainstream of society, he believes. "The older people have been developing a culture of their own in retirement villages and high-rise apartments, segregating themselves from the rest of society."

"The isolated conditions that bring young people into contact with the elderly tends to be negative. It gives young people the opinion, 'If that's what I face when I reach 65, then I hope I don't last that long.'"

The educator suggests that the way of dealing with senior citizens be changed so they can live a full life to the very end.

Indian day at Webster school

Among the numerous Granite City Park District summer recreation programs, children at the Webster School playground found themselves last week creating Indian costumes, with feet and finger painting to decorate a teepee.

The children also had balloon fights and a scavenger hunt.

They also visited Ron Wood's Pottery Shop, 2534 State St., where each child was given a souvenir pottery charm following a clay demonstration.

A visit to the park carnival, a picnic and a swim were included in the activities under the leadership of Tami Terrell and Pam Mezaro.

FALLS OFF TRUCK

Ronnie Parente, 19, of No. 8 Devon Hill, was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital for observation during the weekend, suffering a knee injury and pain to the middle of the back.

Parente said he fell from a truck.

CLIFFORD BARR: Remembering you "Grandpa" on your birthday, July 9. I can still hear you say, "Got your card today and I cried." Today, we cry because you're no longer here. You left us 9 weeks ago and with you went a piece of each of us. You were so many things to us, our clown when we needed repairs, our listener when we had a problem, our doctor for those skinned knees in our childhood, our very own Santa plus many more. You were our family foundation, and most important, our very best friend. Now we're left with only memories, all of them happy. If tears could bring you back, we could cry rivers but we know this isn't a reality, so we must go on, knowing in our hearts you would have wanted and expected us to. You may be gone from us in body, but you will never be forgotten or gone from in heart. Grandpa, we love and miss you so very much.

A NEW CONCEPT FROM TELL CITY
Why didn't they think of it before?
All of us know someone who struggles to get up from a low-seated rocker or chair.
Someone too proud to ask for help.
Now, Tell City has built the help right into this High 'n Easy Rocker. Runners are flatter, have a backstop. So it won't rock back as far. Won't tilt forward when you put weight on the arms. You can push going up, brake going down. Seat is higher, too, so you don't go down as far. It's comfortable, too—with a high back to lean your head against. And curved spindles to fit your spine. Just right for less active people who want a rocker that's less active.
Buy it for someone you love.
Even if that someone is you.
The High 'n Easy Rocker
• Professionally engineered for less active people.
• Extra-sturdy construction.
• Made of Solid Hard Rock Maple.
